British artist Peter Liversidge writes proposals for exhibitions and projects that range from the simple to the impossible. All proposals start in the same way, as a typed A4 piece of paper.

Art can be more than just aesthetics. Art can have agency and instigate a change in action and thought. Art can be an event, performance or happening.

Using signs and their association with protest and demonstration, we are looking for rough and ready signs made from cardboard and marker pens, paper and paint, or whatever you have available.

Be Heard!

Peter Liversidge wants you to join him in the creation of a new artwork to be unveiled at Jupiter Artland. Produce a sign painting and have your voice heard!

Create a message for your sign using these four questions, created by Peter Liversidge with ORBIT Youth Council to stimulate debate on what's happening right now.

- 1. Where do you live in Scotland?
- 2. What is the best thing about where you are?
- 3. If anything, what would you like to change?
- 4. What would you like to tell everyone?

Peter Liversidge is gathering your responses to incorporate into a monumental sign painting for Jupiter Artland. Email pictures to marketing@jupiterartland.org, tag us on Instagram, Twitter, or Facebook, or complete online via link in our bio!

Orbit Youth Council are the beating heart of the learning foundation at Jupiter. We want to thank them for working so hard to bring Peters proposal to life.

A person wearing a white t-shirt and red trousers stands in a lush garden, holding a large, hand-painted sign. The sign is made of cardboard and features the words 'THANK YOU NHS' in bold, black, hand-painted capital letters. The person is holding the sign with both hands. The background is filled with green foliage, including bushes and trees, and a brick building with a window is visible in the upper left. A bird feeder hangs from a tree branch in the upper left. The overall scene is bright and outdoors.
